Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.A play by Drew McCreadie When a night-stalker starts breaking into people s homes, killing the husbands in their bed and leaving the wives unharmed, suspicion begins to overtake the happy 1960 s neighbourhood, or at least the overactive imagination of Murtha, the bed-wetting neighbour. Sex, murder, imaginary lesbians, and a woman dressed in a tight leather cat outfit. You want more than that? Elaine is a happy housewife - a positive proton in the 1960 s nuclear family. but still, something is not right: Elaine is having strange erotic fantasies that she can not explain - fantasies about a woman dressed in a leather cat-suit. Perhaps it s the bad influence of Murtha, the bed-wetting neighbour, whose daily visits include readings from her collection of smutty novels. And Murtha has a theory: she thinks the Nightstalker is actually a woman taking revenge on cheating husbands. An interesting theory - has Murtha mentioned that theory to Elaine s husband Ted during her late late night visits with him? And what about Elaine s husband Ted? He seems perfect...
