Associating with these venerable contemporaries helped to keep father young. In the Congressional Hall at Washington hangs a picture of this club, one of the most unique in all the world. It was also published in The Geographical magazine in 1919. Many congratulations came to father from friends in the east when they recognized his face in the group. Two of the members of this club, Dr. Morrison and Senator Cole, have since passed their 100th birthday, thus fulfilling the club's motto: Grow old gracefully and live 100 years. As one by one dropped out, father would remark, They couldn't quite make it. A year before he left us he had a hard and trying siege of...
